THE SALAMANDER SAFES OF PHILADELPHIA AGAINST THE WORLD.

EVANS & WATSON

Have had the surest demonstration in the following certificate that their manufacture of Salamander Safes has at length fully warranted the representations which have been made of them as rendering an undoubted security against the terrific element:

Philadelphia, April 12th, 1856.

MESSRS. EVANS & WATSON—Gentlemen—It affords us the highest satisfaction to state to you, that owing to the very protective qualities of two of the Salamander Safes which we purchased of you some few months since, we saved a large portion of our jewelry, and all our books, papers, &c., exposed to the calamitous fire in Ranstead Place, on the morning of the 11th instant.

When we reflect that these Safes were located in the fourth story of the building we occupied, and that they fell subsequently into a heap of burning ruins, where the vast concentration of heat caused the brass plates to melt, we cannot but regard the preservation of their valuable contents as most convincing proof of the great security afforded by your Safes.

We shall take much pleasure in recommending them to men of business as a sure reliance against fire.

MEDICAL SCIENCE.
The history of "HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS," the most remarkable medicine of the day, and the many cures that have been performed with it in cases of LIVER COMPLAINT, DYSPEPSIA, NERVOUS DEBILITY, and diseases arising from a disordered liver or stomach, place it among the most astonishing discoveries that have taken place in the medical world. The diseases to which these Bitters are applicable are so universal, that there are but few of our friends who may not test their virtues in their own families or circle of acquaintances, and prove to their own satisfaction that there is at least one remedy among the many advertised medicines, deserving the public commendation. It is a fact that, in the minds of many persons, a prejudice exists against what are called Patent Medicines; but why should this prevent you resorting to an article that has such an array of testimony to support it as Hoofland's German Bitters? Physicians prescribe it, Why should you discard it? Judges, usually considered men of talent, have and do use it in their own families. Why should you reject it? Clergymen, and those the most eminent, take it; why should not you? Let not your prejudice usurp your reason, to the everlasting injury of your health; if you are sick, and require a medicine, try these Bitters.
These Bitters are prepared and sold by Dr. C. M. Jackson, No. 418 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa., and by druggists and storekeepers in every town and village in the United States, Canadas, West Indies, and South America, at 75 cents per bottle. See that the signature of C. M. Jackson is on the wrapper of each bottle.

THE GREAT BALLOON VOYAGE.

Mr. Haddock's Account—Three Hundred Miles in Four Hours—Landing in the Wilderness—The Balloon Abandoned—Four Days without Food—Lost in the Woods—Eating Raw Frogs and Berries—Providential Deliverance.

[From the Watertown Reformer Extra, Oct. 7.]

Nearly every one in this locality is aware that the second ascension of the Atlantic was advertised for the 20th of September. The storm of that and the following day obliged the postponement of the ascension until the 22d (Thursday.) Every arrangement had been made for a successful inflation, and at 37 minutes before 6 p. m. the glad words, "all aboard," were heard from Mr. La Mountain, and myself and that distinguished æronaut stepped into the car. Many were the friendly hands he shook—many a fervent "God bless you," and "happy voyage," were uttered—and many handkerchiefs waved their mute adieu. Just as I stepped in my good friend Fayel stripped off his overcoat and pressed it upon me, saying that, as Mr. La Mountain had had no outer garment, we would need more than we had. I took it, and it did me good service, but I was never able to return it. Mr. Burnett, of the American, in the kindest manner supplied us with some eatables and drinkables. "Let go all," and away we soared—the horses on the square "reared and pitched" a good deal at the novel sight, but in an instant all minor sounds of earth had ceased, and we were lifted in a silent sphere, whose shores were without an echo, their silence equalled only by that of the grave. Not the least feeling of trepidation was experienced—an extraordinary elation took possession of my soul, and fear was as far removed as though I had been sitting in my own room at home.

Two or three things struck me in looking down from an altitude of half a mile. The small appearance of our village from such a height, and the beautiful mechanical look which the straight fences and oblong-square fields of the farmers present. The buildings in the village do not, from such a height, appear to cover a tenth part of the ground.—The poor old court-house looked like a pepper-box standing on a ten-acre lot, and the first church-spire barely equalled in size a respectable May-pole.

As we rose in light fleecy clouds, they looked between us and the earth like patches of snow we see lying upon the landscape in Spring time; but when we rose a little higher the clouds completely shut out the earth, and the cold white masses below us had precisely the same look that a mountainous snow-covered country does as you look down upon it from a higher mountain. Those who have crossed the Alps by the Sumplon Pass—or have stood upon one of the lofty summits of Sierra Nevada, and gazed down upon the eternal snows below and around them, will be able to catch the idea I am trying to convey. In six minutes we were far above all the clouds, and the sun and we were face to face. We saw the time after that when his face looked very fair to us. In eight minutes after leaving the earth, the thermometer kindly loaned us by T. H. Camp & Co., showed a fall of 24 degrees. It stood 84 when we left. The balloon rotated a good deal, showing that she was ascending with great rapidity.

At 5:48 thermometer stood at 42, and falling very fast. At 5:50 we were at least two miles high—thermometer 34. At this point a suggestion made just before starting, by Judge Clark of Plessis, was found to be a very good one. He had advised the taking along of some cotton, with which to fill the ears when at great heights, and my father had procured me some. The unpleasant ringing sensation had now become painful, and I filled both ears with cotton. This made my head feel a good deal as a very large hollow pumpkin may be supposed to, with a humming bird buzzing upon its surface—a comparison with which, doubtless, many who read this account will hardly quarrel. At 5:52 we put on our gloves and shawls—an extra pair for Mr. La Mountain being found in friend Fayel's overcoat—thermometer 32. The wet sand bags now became stiff with cold—they were frozen. Ascending very rapidly. At 5:54 thermometer 28, and falling. Here we caught our last sight of the earth by daylight. I recognized the St. Lawrence to the south-west of us, which showed we were drifting nearly north. At 6 o'clock we thought we were descending a little, and Mr. La mountain directed me to throw out about twenty pounds of ballast. This shot us up again—thermometer 26°, falling very slowly. At 6:05—thermometer 22°—my feet were very cold. The Atlantic was now full, and presented a most splendid sight. The gas began to discharge itself at the mouth, and its abominable smell, as it came down upon us, made me sick. I had been trying some of friend Burnett's "sinews of war," but everything that would come up left my poor stomach in a flood. A moment's vomiting made me feel all right again. La Mountain was suffering a good deal with cold.—I passed my thick shawl around his shoulders, and put the blanket over our knees and feet. At 6:10 thermometer 18°. We drifted along until the sun left us, and in a short time thereafter the balloon began to descend. At 6:30, thermometer 22—rising. Threw over about 5 pounds ballast. We must have been, before we began to descend from this height, 3½ miles high. At 6:30, thermometer 23—rising. We were now about stationary, and thought we were sailing north of east. We could, we thought, distinguish water below us, but unable to recognize it. At 6:38 we threw over a bag of sand, making 80 pounds of ballast discharged, leaving about 120 pounds on hand. We distinctly heard a dog bark. Thermometer 28—rising rapidly. At 6:45, thermometer 33.

At 6:50 it was dark, and I could make no more memoranda. I put up my note book, pencil, and watch, and settled down into the basket, as much at home as though at my post in the Reformer office. From this point until the morning I can only give my experiences from memory. The figures in the preceding narrative were all made at the time, and the variations of the thermometer can be depended upon as accurate.

We heard, soon after dark, a locomotive whistle, and occasionally could hear wagons rumbling along the ground over a bridge, while the dogs kept up an almost ceaseless serenade, as if conscious there was something in the sky monstrous and unusual. We sailed along, contented and chatty, until about half past 7, when we distinctly saw lights, and heard the roaring of a mighty waterfall. We descended into a valley near a very high mountain, but as the place appeared rather forbidding, we concluded to go up again. Over with 30 pounds of ballast, and skyward we sailed. In about 20 minutes we again descended, but this time no friendly light or "deep-mouthed watch-dogs' heavy" bay greeted us. We were over a dense wilderness, and settled down over a small lake. We had our life-preservers ready for use, but got up again by throwing over all our ballast but 18 pounds. Mr. La Mountain said that it was folly and madness to stay up any longer, that we were over a great wilderness, and the sooner we descended the better. We concluded to settle down by the side of a tree, tie up and wait until morning. In a moment we were near the earth, and as we fell, I grasped the extreme top of a tall spruce, which stopped her descent, and we were soon fastened to it by the large drag-rope. The touch of that spruce sent a thrill of discomfort to my heart, for I knew that its kind did not grow in any well settled, nor any warm country.

Mr. La Mountain said after he looked around and made as much of an examination of the scenery as we could do for the darkness and rain, (for it had rained the past hour,) that the Atlantic was played out—"we were far into the woods, and if we got out alive we ought to be thankful."

We rolled ourselves up in blankets, and patiently waited until morning. The rain dripped down upon us in rivulets from the great balloon, and it was not long before we were wet as men could be. After a night passed in great discomfort we were glad to see the first faint ray of daylight. Cold and wet, and rainy, the morning broke, the typical precursor, we were to learn, of many other mornings to be spent in those uninhabited wilds. We waited until 6 o'clock, in hopes the rain would cease, and that the rays of the sun, by warming the gas in the balloon, would give us ascending power sufficient to get up again, for the purpose, if for no other, of obtaining a view of the country into which we had descended. The rain did not cease, and we concluded to throw all we had out of the balloon except a coat apiece, the life-preservers, the anchor and the compass. Overboard, then they went—good shawls and blankets. Mr. Fayle's overcoat, bottle of ale and a flask of cordial, ropes and traps of all kinds. The Atlantic, relieved of her wet load, rose majestically with us, and we were able to behold the country below.—It was an unbroken wilderness of lakes and spruce—and we felt, then, that we had gone too far, through a miscalculation of the velocity of the balloon. As the current was driving us still to the north, we dare not stay up, as we were drifting further and still further to that "frozen tide" from which we knew there was no escape. Mr. La Mountain seized the valve cord and discharged gas, and we descended in safety by the side of a tall spruce. We made the Atlantic fast by her anchor, and for a moment talked over what we should do. We had not a mouthful to eat. No protection at night from the damp ground, were distant we knew not how far from any habitation, were hungry to start, with no earthly hope of raising a fire, and no distinct idea as to where we were. We concluded to trust to the compass kindly loaned by H. K. Newcomb, Esq., and take a course which should bring us out of any wilderness we might be in. We settled in our minds that we were either in John Brown's Tract or in the great Canada wilderness—to the south we thought, of the Ottawa—and knew that a course south by east would take us out, if we had strength enough to travel the distance. La Mountain stepped up to the balloon and gave the edge of the basket a parting shake, saying, "Good-bye, old Atlantic," and I fancied I could see a tear in his honest eye when he said it. He seemed greatly to regret his inability to perform his engagements at the Kingston and New York State Fairs, at both of which he was advertised to make ascensions.

TRAMPING IN THE WOODS.

To the south-east then we started. After traveling about a mile and a half, we came to the bank of a small creek, flowing down from the westward. At this point, we were agreeably surprised to find some one had been there before us, for we found several small trees cut down, the coals from an old fire, and a half barrel which had contained pork. I eagerly examined the stamp. It read:

"Mess Pork,
P. M.,
Montreal."

This settled the question that we were in Canada, for I very well knew that no inspection of pork ever found its way into the interior of New York State. We traveled all day Friday up the unknown creek, which kept its general course to the south of west, crossing it about noon on a floating log, and striking on its southern bank, a "blazed" track, which led us up to the deserted timber road, lying on the opposite side from a large lumbering shanty. We hoped one of the lumber roads might take us out to a settlement, but after traveling up them all until they terminated in the wilderness, we concluded to cross the creek to the shanty, and stay in it all night. La Mountain got across safely; but my weight was greater than his, and the raft left me into the stream. I sank in all over, and swam out, though it required all my strength to do so, and on reaching the bank I found myself so chilled as scarcely to be able to stand. I took off my clothes, wrung them, and we proceeded to the shanty, where we found plenty of refuse straw, but it was dry, and under a pile of it we crawled—pulling it over our heads and faces in the hope that our breath might aid in warming our chilled bodies. I think the most revengeful, stony heart would have pitied our condition then. The weary hours of night at last wore away, and we held a new council. It was evident, we reasoned, that the creek we were upon was used for "driving" logs in the spring season. If, then, we followed it to its confluence with the Ottawa, or some stream which emptied into the Ottawa, we would in time get out the same way the timber went out. The roof of the shanty was covered with the halves of logs, scooped out in a manner familiar to all woodmen. These were light and dry, and would form an excellent raft. Why not, then, take four of these, tie them to cross pieces by withes and such old things as we could find around the shanty, and pole the structure down to that civilization which a saw log ought to be able to reach. Such was the course we adopted. We dragged the logs down to the creek and La Mountain tied them together, as he was evidently more of a sailor than myself. We got under way, and as we pushed off a crow set up a distant cawing—an inauspicious sign and ominous of the great trials and sufferings in store for us. We pulled down the stream about ten miles and came abruptly upon an immense pine tree which had fallen across the stream, completely blocking the passage of the raft. No alternative was left but to untie the pieces and attempt to push them through under the log. This was at last done; tied the raft together again and poled her down stream. To-day we ate each a raw frog, all we could find, and began to feel that we were hungry. But there was no complaining—our talk was of the hopeful future, and the civilization we hoped yet to reach. Down the creek we went in a lake some two miles long, and into which we of course supposed the stream passed, having its outlet at the lower end. We followed down the northern bank, keeping always in shallow spots, so that our poles could touch the bottom, until we arrived at the bottom of the lake, where we found no outlet, and turned back upon the southern bank in quest of it. On reaching the beak of the lake we found that the current of the creek turned abruptly to the right which was the reason of our losing it.

We felt happy to have found it again, and plied our poles like heroes. We passed, during the day, the spot where we had first struck the creek, and where we had made a sight landmark, which might afterward aid us in finding the Atlantic, should we even wish to do so, in order to get her out. At night we did not stop, but kept the raft going down through the shades of awful forests, whose solemn stillness seemed to hold the unrevealed mystery of our darkening future.—About 10 o'clock it began to rain again.—We stopped the "vessel," and crawled in under some "tag" alders on the bank, where our extreme weariness enabled us to get, perhaps, half an hour's sleep. Rising again, (for it was easier to poll at night in the rain down an unknown stream, than to lie on the ground and freeze,) we pressed on for a couple of hours, until about 3 o'clock, when pure exhaustion induced us to stop again.—This time we found a spot where the clayey bank lacked a little of coming down to the water. On the mud we threw our little bundle of straw, and sat down with our feet drawn under us, so that our bodies presented as little surface as possible for the rain to beat upon. But we could not stand such an uncomfortable position long, and as daylight of the Sabbath broke upon us, we were polling down the stream in a drizzling rain.—At eight o'clock we came to a place where the stream canoned—rushing over a stony bed, down a steep descent, between high rocks on either bank. To get our raft down this place was regarded as hopeless. We tied up and examined the shore. Here, again, we found unmistakable evidence of lumbermen, as they had evidently camped at this point, to be handy by the attempts they were doubtless obliged to make to get the timber down the canon. The rapids were about the third of a mile long, and in all the rapids of Black River, there is nothing so wild and romantic as these. We descended the bank and thought it best to try our luck on foot. After traveling about a mile, we found the bank so tangled and rugged, and ourselves so much exhausted, that locomotion was impossible.—So we concluded to go back, and if we could get the raft down a piece at a time, we would go on with her; if not, we would build as good a place as possible to crawl into, and prepare for death.

We went back, and after examining the stream attentively, concluded to try to get the raft down. We at once commenced, and I freely confess this the most trying and laborious work of a life of labor. The pieces would not float over a rod at a time, before they would stick on some stone which the low water left above the surface, and then you must pry it over in some way, and pass it along to the next obstruction. We were obliged to get into the stream, often up to the middle, and there I several times fell headlong—completely using up our compass, which now frantically pointed in any direction its addled head thought desirable. The water had unglued the case, and it was ruined. After long hours of such labor, we got the raft down, and La Mountain again tied it together. Passing on, in about an hour we came to a large lake—ten miles long, and six miles broad. Around it we must, of course, pass until we should find the outlet. So we turned up to the right, and pressed on with as much resolution as could be expected. To-day we found one clam, which I insisted La Mountain should eat, as he was weaker than myself, and had eaten little or nothing on the day we went up. Around we went, into all the indentations of the shore, keeping always in shallow water. At last we stopped at a place we thought least exposed to the wind. We laid down upon the cold ground, having lifted up the end of our raft so that the wind might not drift it away in the night. We were cold when we laid down, and both of us trembled by the hour like men suffering from a severe attack of the ague. The wind had risen just at night, and the dismal surging of the waves upon the shore formed, I thought, a fitting lullaby to slumbers so disturbed and dismal as ours. By this time our clothes were nearly torn off. My pantaloons were slit up both legs, and waistbands nearly torn off. My boots leaked, and our mighty wrestlings in the canons had torn the skin from my ankles and hands.—La Mountain's hat was gone; the first day out he had thrown away his woolen drawers and stockings, as they dragged him down by the weight of the water they absorbed. We slept but little. It really seemed as though, during the night, we passed through the horrors of a dozen deaths. At daylight, we got up by degrees—first on one knee then on the other—so stiff and weak we could hardly stand.

Again upon the most endless lake we went—followed round its shore for an outlet.—About 10 o'clock we found a broad, northern stream, which we thought was the outlet we were seeking, and we entered it with great joy, believing that it would take us to our long sought Ottawa. Shortly after entering the stream it widened out, and assumed the form of a lake. We poled up the westerly shore for about 7 miles, but found we were again deceived. On our way up Mr. La M. sang these pretty lines:

"Cheer up your hearts, my men;
Let nothing fright you;
Be of a gallant mind—
Let that delight you."

His voice was hardly above a whisper, but the song was a source of great comfort to me. His, indeed, was a "gallant mind," which the extraordinary hardships and dangers of our position had not daunted. But when we found that all the weary miles of our morning travel had been in vain, and had to be retraced, my resolution certainly failed me for a moment, and I sat down upon my end of the raft, and felt like shedding one tear of genuine regret. Yet we felt that our duty, as Christian men, was to press on as long as we could stand, and leave the issue with God.

It had now been four full days since we ate a meal. All we had eaten in the mean time was a frog apiece, four clams, and a few wild berries, whose acid properties and bitter taste had probably done us more harm than good. Our strength was beginning to fail very fast, and our systems were evidently about to undergo an extraordinary change. I did not permit myself to think of food—the thought of a well covered table would have been too much. I thought over all of poor Strain's sufferings on the Isthmus of Darien, where he too was paddling a raft down an unknown stream—but never believed he could stand half the amount of suffering he did.—Besides, he had means to make a fire—we had none.

He was upon a stream which he knew would lead to the sea and safety—we were upon waters whose flow we knew really nothing of, and were as much lost as though in the Mountains of the Moon. But we "could not give it up so," and took fresh courage as troubles appeared to thicken.

Well, we turned the raft around, and poled her back toward the place where we had entered this last lake. We had gone about a mile when I heard the sound of a gun, quickly followed by another report. No sound was ever so sweet to me as that. We halloed as loud as we could a good many times, but could get no response. We kept our poles going, and had gone about half a mile, when I called La Mountain's attention to what I thought was a smoke curling up among the trees on the side of a hill. My own eyesight had begun to fail me to an extent, that I could not depend upon it when a long, steady gaze was necessary. He said it was smoke, and that he thought just below it, on the bank, was a bark canoe. In a few moments the blue smoke rolled gently, yet unmistakably, above the tree tops, and we felt that we were saved. Such a revulsion of feeling was almost too much for us. We could hardly believe our senses, and credited anything favorable to our condition with the utmost caution. Our bitter disappointments had taught us that lesson.

We paddled the raft with the ends of our poles directly across the lake, near, perhaps, three-fourths of a mile wide, and made for the canoe. It proved to be a large one, evidently an Indian's. Up the bank I pressed, leaving La Mountain at the canoe to cut off a retreat by the Indian, in case he was timid and wished to avoid us. I came at once upon the shanties of a lumbering wood, and from the chimney of the furthest building, a broad volume of smoke was rising. I halloed—a noise was heard inside, and a noble looking Indian came to the door. "Vous parley Francais?" was my eager inquiry as I grasped his outstretched hand. "Yes, Sir, and English, too." He drew me into the cabin, and there was the head of the party, noble-hearted Scotchman, named Angus Cameron. I immediately told my story—that we came in with a balloon, were lost, and had been four days without food, asking where we were.—Imagine my surprise when he said we were one hundred and fifty miles due north of Ottawa—in the dense, uninhabited forest, whose only limit was the Arctic circle. In a word, we were nearly 300 miles in a due north course from Watertown, in latitude 47.

Dinner was all ready. The party consisted of four persons—Mr. Cameron, and his assistant, who was also named Cameron; LaMad MacDougall—a half-breed, and his son Beauceil. I despatched the young Indian for La Mountain, who came in after a moment, the absolute picture of wretchedness. All that the cabin contained was freely tendered us, and we began to eat. Language is inadequate to express our sensations while doing so.—The clouds had all lifted from our sombre future, and the "silver lining" shone all the brighter for the deep darkness through which we had passed.

Here let me state that the stream we came down so far with our raft is called Filliman's Creek; the large lake we sailed around is called Bosketong Lake, and drains into Bosketong River—which flows into the Gatineau. The Gatineau joins the Ottawa opposite Ottawa City. Mr. Cameron assured us that these streams are so tortuous, and in many places so rapid, that no set of men could get a raft down, no matter how well they knew the country, nor how much provisions they might have. He regarded our deliverance as purely Providential, and many times remarked that we would certainly have perished but for seeing his smoke.

Mr. Cameron was hunting timber for his employers (Gilmour & Co., of Ottawa,) and was to start in two days for down the Gatineau, to his headquarters at Desert. If we would stay until he started, we were welcome, he said, to food and accommodations, and he would take us down to Desert in his canoe, and at that point we could get Indians to take us further on. He also said that he had intended to look for timber on Filliman's Creek, near where the balloon would be found, as we could describe the locality to him, and would try to look it up, and make the attempt to get it to Ottawa. This would be a long and tedious operation, as the portages are very numerous between the creek and Desert—something over twenty—one of them three miles long. Over these portages of course the silk must be carried on the backs of Indians.

After finishing up his business in the vicinity where we found him, on Friday Mr. Cameron started on his return. We stopped on our way up the creek, at the place where we had erected our signal by which to find the balloon. We struck back for the place, and in about twenty minutes found her impaled on the top of four smallish spruce trees, tore very much. La Mountain concluded to abandon her. He took the valve as a memento, and I cut out the letters "tic," which had formed a part of her name, and brought it home with me. We reached what is known as the "New Farm," on Friday night, and there ended our sleeping on the ground—an operation always unpleasant, but particularly so at the fall of the year. On Saturday we reached Desert through a drenching rain, from which there was protection.

At Desert we were a good deal troubled to obtain Indians to take us out. At last we appealed to Mr. John Backus, a kind hearted American trader, who agreed to procure us a complement of Red Skins sufficient to take us to Beau's place—60 miles—where it was thought we might obtain horses. Sunday morning we started from Desert, and reached Alexis' Beau's about 6 P. M. The scenery upon this part of our route was sublime and imposing. The primeval forest stood as grand and silent as when created. The Indians we had in our employ to-day surpassed anything I ever beheld in physical vigor and endurance.

There were fifteen portages to be made during the day's run of sixty miles. They would seize the canoe, jerk it upon their shoulders with a swing, and start upon a dog trot as unconcernedly as though bearing no burden. Arriving at the bottom of the fall, they would toss the canoe into the stream, cry out, "Arretis la!" and away we would go again, gliding down the stream like an arrow. We traveled fifteen miles, and made seven portages in one hour and forty minutes.

At Alexis L'Bean's we first beheld a horse and vehicle, which they called a "Buckboard"—simply a couple of boards reaching from one bolster to the other, upon which the seats were placed. Starting at 7 in the evening, we traveled nearly all night through the forests, over one of the worst roads that was ever left unfinished, and reached Brook's farm, a sort of frontier tavern, in the early morning, where we slept a couple of hours, and after breakfast pressed on by the stage to Ottawa, which we reached at 5 o'clock on Monday afternoon. Our first rush was to the telegraph office, whence the trembling wires sped the glad news of our safety to the "loved ones at home." At Ottawa we were most hospitably entertained. To Robert Bell, Esq., editor of The Citizen, and President of the Ottawa and Prescott Railway, as well as to Joseph Aumond Esq., we are under special obligations by acts of kindness which will not soon be forgotten. Indeed from the time we left Basketong until we reached home, we met with nothing but one continual stream of congratulation and proffered kindness.

At Ogdensburg, and all along the line of the Potsdam and Watertown Railroad, we found large crowds awaiting our arrival, which gave unmistakable evidence of the deep sympathy felt in our fate.

Several general conclusions and remarks shall terminate this narrative, already too long. "Why did you permit yourselves to go so far?" will naturally be asked. To which we can only reply that the wind was exceeding light when we ascended; that we were soon among the clouds, and consequently unable to take cognizance of our course, or to judge how fast we were traveling. Perhaps it is well here to remark that when you are sailing in a balloon you are utterly unconscious of motion, unless you can see the earth. Nor can you tell by a compass, in which direction you are traveling, unless you are sufficient of an astronomer to judge from the shifting angles formed by certain stars.—In a word, if you cannot see the earth, you cannot tell how fast, nor in which direction you move. This will, perhaps, explain why we unconsciously drifted off to latitudes so remote. When we rose above the thick masses of clouds, before sundown, we undoubtedly struck a rapid current which carried us northeast. It is my opinion that, after we had traveled in this current about one hour we struck another current, from a variation of our altitude, which bore us off to the north-west. When we descended near the earth the first time we ought to have come down. But we were unwilling to land at night in a deep wood, even though we knew we were not far from habitations, and we thought it best to pick out a better place.—This was our error, and it came near being a fatal one to us—it certainly was to the Atlantic. In trying to find our "better place" to land, we were unconsciously up longer than we supposed, and as we were traveling in a current which swept us off to the northward at the rate of 100 miles an hour, we soon reached a country not pleasant nor profitable to land a balloon in.

The loss to Mr. La Mountain by the calamity which has overtaken him, does not stop with the loss of his balloon. He had several profitable engagements to fill, which must, of course all go over, entailing disappointment upon the public, and loss upon himself. In his present position, in poor health, and not "overly" rich, I cannot but hope some capitalist will furnish him with sufficient means to carry on his undertakings. Of course the present mishap has not changed his views relative to ballooning, nor has it mine. Mr. La Mountain is a brave man; he probably does not know what personal fear is. Such traits will always command the respect of those who know that the fine temper of steel is only imparted after exposure to severe tests, before whose intensity meaner metals perish, or sink into blackened and worthless dross.

The Election.

THE RESULT IN THE COUNTY.—The official returns of the election for the county will be found in to-day's Globe. It will be seen that J. Simpson Africa for Assembly, and S. T. Brown for Prosecuting Attorney, nominated by the Democratic County Convention, have been elected by handsome majorities. Their success cannot be claimed as a party victory, as without the votes of their personal friends in the Opposition party, neither could have received a majority of votes in the county.—Their election shows that a nomination by the Opposition is no longer as good as an election—that if the Opposition wish to succeed they must put in nomination their very best and strongest men—and even then their nominees may be defeated, as the Democrats have men in their ranks equal to their best and strongest. Our candidate for Sheriff is defeated by only 56 votes, Jacob Miller by 369 votes, J. W. Galbraith by 372 votes, David Barrick by 117 votes, Robert McBurney by 282 votes, and N. K. Covert by 405 votes. We would be better pleased if more of our candidates had came out of the contest with majorities, but taking into consideration the fact that the Democracy are in the minority in the county, we feel very thankful to the Opposition for the officers they have given us.

We have strived in the campaign just terminated, to treat all our opponents with that courtesy and respect which is due between gentlemen. Our columns have been free from abuse and personal detraction. If the public acts of an opponent were to be examined it was done in such a spirit of respect and candor, as to elicit the indorsal of our adversaries. Thus we close the contest, conscious that we have done no man a wrong, and confident that we have not sacrificed our manhood in servile obedience to the imperitive behests of blind and heartless party leaders.

The Result in the State.

The Opposition State ticket is elected by at least 15,000 majority. This result should satisfy the corrupt men who controlled the action of the Convention that placed Wright and Rowe in nomination, that voters will think and act for themselves. The action of that Convention has also lost to the Democracy, the Senate and House of Representatives, a State Treasurer, and perhaps a United States Senator. In this county, the action of that Convention was repudiated by the press, and we elect a member to the Legislature—a gain—while in some of the strongest Democratic counties and districts the Opposition have gained Senators and Members of the House.

Will the next State Convention be controlled by the same corrupt and proscriptive feelings as that of last Spring? if so, the campaign of '60 will certainly result as fatally to the Democracy as the one just closed.

SINGULAR.—During the last campaign, Mr. Africa, our candidate for Assembly, was soundly abused through the columns of the Journal and American, and personally by some of the self-constituted leaders of the Opposition party, and yet, at the election, he received the highest vote given to any candidate on the Democratic ticket. Gentlemen, the people of the county didn't appreciate your labor.

Last year Mr. Wigton's majority was	732
This year Mr. Africa's majority is	144
Change in one year,	876

THE PENNSYLVANIA LEGISLATURE.—The Senate will stand 21 Opposition to 12 Democrats. The House will stand 70 Opposition to 30 Democrats.

In our next we shall endeavor to give the official vote of the State—Senatorial and Representative districts.

☞ J. Edgar Thompson has been elected President of the Pacific Railroad Company.

☞ Mr. Mason, Minister to France, died suddenly of apoplexy, on the 3d inst.

OHIO ELECTION.—The regular telegraphic news from Columbus is to the effect that the Republican State ticket is elected by seventeen thousand majority, and the Republicans will have a majority of fifteen in the Senate and twenty-four in the House!

☞ John Calhoun, Ex-Surveyor General of Kansas and Nebraska, and President of the Lecompton Constitutional Convention, died at St. Josephs, on the 13th inst.

THANKSGIVING.—Gov. Packer has appointed Thursday, the 24th day of November next, as a day of general thanksgiving.

The display of articles in this class was quite creditable. The ladies who are or have been teachers and pupils in the Cassville Seminary, deserve special notice for the taste in design and skill in execution of their productions.
There were a number of articles entered in the book which could not be found on exhibition, and we regretted that there were no provision authorizing premiums for a number of very deserving articles entered in this class.
In addition to those to which premiums have been allotted, we deem it a duty to notice and commend needlework, by Miss Newingham, Mrs. A. M. Massey, Miss Clara Smith and Miss Matilda Slick: Ottoman covers, by Miss Nannie Gwin, Miss Mollie Dopp, Miss Jane Drayton, Miss Bell Fisher and Miss Cath. Piper: Bead work, by Miss Nettie Black and Miss L. Westbrook: Embroidery and moss frames, by Miss M. T. Anderson: Hair work, by Miss Savage and Miss M. A. Reed: Coral work and embroidery, by Mrs. Gen. Lane; and flowers cut in marble by James Green.
We also find entered for our inspection, a live Rattlesnake, and though he handles his needles dexterously; his shells speak for themselves; and his coat is highly ornamental with exquisitely blended colors, we cannot encourage his snakeship's presence by recommending a premium.
Committee—Jno. Scott, Eliza H. Stitt, Mary M. Gregg, Ellen M. Gregg, Wm. B. Leas.

CLASS 11.—MECHANICAL IMPLEMENTS AND MANUFACTURES.

Best 2 horse carriage, Owen Boat, 2 00

" horse shoes, Huller & Warfel, 50
" corn broom, John Friedley, 50
An "Architect's Drawing Frame," invented by Albert Owen, and intended as a labor-saving machine for draughtsmen, seems to be admirably adapted for the purpose.
A wagon, manufactured by Owen Boat, for the Huntingdon Band, is an admirable specimen of good workmanship, and reflects much credit on Mr. Boat the builder, Rev. Mr. Barnitz, the ornamental painter, and the Excelsior Band the owners. The whole "turn out," including 6 elegantly caparisoned horses, cannot be surpassed by any town of the size of Huntingdon, in the state.
A case of finely finished single and double barreled rifles exhibited by the manufacturers, Messrs. Johnston & Douglas, of McConnellstown, show great perfection in this branch of business and we regret that no premiums are offered for such articles.
M. Silknitter, also exhibited a handsomely made rifle, with globe sights, steel triggers, &c.
A two horse spring wagon made by Joseph Piper, of Alexandria, is well constructed and in good proportion.
A corn sheller and apple mill combined, entered by T. P. Love, Huntingdon, looks as though it might be a very economical machine for our farmers.
Among the articles in our department was placed a magnificent fossil, by Jacob Stouffer, of Alligrippus Ridge. It was a thick cluster of stems of an extinct plant known as the lily Encrinite, and was the finest specimen of the kind we have ever seen.
In justice to the chairman, your committee state that the premium for cabinet ware was awarded to him against his wishes.
Committee—Wm. Dorris, Jr., R. C. McGill, Richard Ashman, John Flenner, John B. Simons.

A jar of "Crawford's late" and "Kenrick's Heath" peaches were exhibited by T. H. Cremer, Esq., worthy of a premium, but the committee had no power to give one.
Gen. A. P. Wilson exhibited a glass of very fine cranberries, grown and gathered on his Warm Spring property. The committee regret they have no authority to award a premium for them. On account of the superior and abundant display of apples, and the small number of premiums offered, the committee are unable to reward the exhibitors of this standard of fruit as they deserve. So much of it is so nearly equal in quality, that your committee find great difficulty in discriminating between good, better and best. Without naming any, the committee would refer with pride to all the exhibitors of apples, as entitled to the thanks of the Agricultural society and its visitors, for this fine display of their fruit, which has added so much to the beauty and value of the Fair. Those of your committee who visited the State Fair at Phila. last week, have no hesitation in declaring the exhibition of apples at this exhibition, superior in quality and beauty to that of the former.

THE HUNTINGDON GLOBE, A DEMOCRATIC FAMILY JOURNAL, DEVOTED TO LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS, &C.

THE GLOBE.

Huntingdon, Wednesday, Oct. 19, 1859.

LOCAL & PERSONAL.

PRESENTS.—Since the Fair, we have received from our friends the following:

From Messrs. Harrison & Mattern, of the Otto Steam Mill, now in successful operation, a sack of excellent wheat flour.

From Mr Jacob Hetrick a fine specimen of pound apples.

From our young friend and brother typo, Mr. Henry McDonald, a box of very fine apples.

From Mrs. Jackson White, two very fine sweet pumpkins.

From Mrs. H. W. Miller, a beautiful boquet of flowers in full bloom.

From Mr. Kennedy M. King, a dish of very fine oysters. Kennedy is always prepared at his Saloon under Gutman's store, to furnish customers with the best oysters and fixtures.

Our kind friends will please accept our thanks.

☞ Prof. Coyle and the Continentals paid Petersburg a flying visit on Monday evening last, to attend the opening of a singing school by Prof. Greene. On yesterday morning, Prof. C. and Mon. Geissinger entered our sanctum, smiling all over, like successful political candidates, each in possession of a beautiful boquet received from the fair ladies of Petersburg. From the account they gave of the treatment they received from the good people of that borough, we should judge they wouldn't be hard to coax in that direction frequently.

A BEAUTIFUL PAINTING.—The first premium Oil Painting, fruit and flowers, by Prof. Roesen, is now on exhibition at our book store. Prof. R. is one of the best artists in the world, and we are pleased that he is being liberally encouraged in this place. Some lucky person will get one of his best paintings for a mere trifle—call and see it and invest a dollar.

☞ The String Band, composed of several of our young gentlemen, paid us a visit one night last week. Of course we waked up and were delighted with their music, which was excellent. We can't be disturbed too often by such music.

☞ A new stock of violins and bows, accordeons and fifes, just received at Lewis' Book Store.

MEDICAL IMPOSSIBILITIES.

For a long time a certain class of diseases have baffled the skill and practice of the most eminent members of the regular medical faculty. Foremost among these we might instance epilepsy or falling fits. Happily now by the skill and inventive genius of an eminent chemist of Baltimore, Md., this disease has been brought within the means of a cure. We allude to the preparation called the VEGETABLE EXTRACT EPILEPTIC PILLS, invented and prepared by Dr. SETH S. HANCE, of 108 Baltimore street, Baltimore, Md. Since their discovery many persons who had given up all hope of ever being cured, have been restored to the full enjoyment of health. Prominent among these we might enumerate Mr. HARRISON LIGHTFOOT, of Huntsville, Alabama. Mr. L. has suffered as much from Epilepsy, as any other person in the world; never knowing what it was to pass a week without having an attack, and often falling in the streets of Huntsville. He is now fully restored and has not had an attack for more than a year. Dr. Hance's Pills have been the sure cause of this cure. These pills also cure all modifications of Fits, Spasms, Cramps, &c., and are very serviceable for persons of weak nerves. Dr. Hance, sends them to any part of the country on the receipt of a remittance. Price, one box, $3; two, $5; twelve, $24. Address Seth S. Hance, 108 Baltimore street, Baltimore, Md.

"Neck Twisting."

There are practices tolerated in religious congregations which Christians, who are jealous for the honor of their master's house, should utterly condemn. Decorum is the handmaid of devotional feeling, and for this reason the house of God should never be disturbed by the slightest approach to irreverence. It is a part of my religion, said a pious old lady, when asked why she went early to church, "It is a part of my religion not to interrupt the worship of others." And we believe if many a congregation made it a part of their religion not to twist their necks almost out of joint to witness the entrance of every person who passes up the aisle of the meeting house, it would be better for both their necks and their religion. A gross abuse of religious decorum sometimes needs harsh medicine as a remedy.

We do not know whether it would be proper for some of our good ministering brethren, who are sorely tried by the neck twisting propensities of their congregations, to use that adopted by Henry Clay Dean, who was at one time chaplain of Congress; but we give it for their consideration, of course to adopt or reject, as they please. The anecdote is from the Pacific Methodist:

Being worried, one afternoon, by the turning practice in his congregation, Mr. Dean stopped in his sermon and said:

"Now, you listen to me, and I'll tell you who the people are, as each one of them comes in."

He then went on with his discourse, until a gentleman entered, when he bawled out like an usher, "Deacon A., who keeps a shop over the way," and then went on with his sermon.

Presently another man passed up the aisle, and he gave his name, residence and occupation; so he continued for some time.

At length some one entered the door who was unknown to Mr. Dean, when he cried out, "A little old man, with a drab coat and an old white hat; don't know him, look for yourselves."

The congregation was cured.

THE MANIAC.—Once on a dimly lighted bridge a traveler met a man whose fantastic costume astonished and alarmed him. The wind blew high, and the waves rolled turbulently under the solemn timbers of the old arches. Black and sullen were the waters; black and sullen was the sky. The man wore a red shirt; a handkerchief was tied with fantastic exactness about his head, and under it stood out his wild elf locks, black as the night, the sky, and the water. Startled at this apparition at so unseemly an hour, the traveler stood appalled, and each surveyed the other on the long thoroughfare. At last a sharp peal of laughter filled the air, and he of the red shirt sprang forward, laying both hands heavily upon the unprepared stranger, and cried out in unearthly tones:

"Man, man! Did you ever thank God for your reason?"

"I—I never did!" stammered the traveler, striving to gain his self-possession.

"Then thank Him now!" shouted the maniac; and standing back to make a leap, his last cry rung on the night as he yelled, "for I have lost mine!" And he sprang over the bridge and into the heaving waters, whose moaning surge smothered his dying struggles.

Reader did you ever thank God for your reason? If not, "thank him now."

GROVER & BAKER'S CELEBRATED FAMILY SEWING MACHINES.

New Styles—Prices from $50 to $125. Extra Charge of $5 for Hemmers.

495 Broadway,.....New York.
730 Chestnut street,.....Philadelphia.

These Machines sew from two spools, as purchased from the store, requiring no re-winding of thread; they Hem, Fell, Gather, and Stitch in a superior style, finishing each seam by their own operation, without recourse to the hand-needle, as is required by other machines. They will do better and cheaper sewing than a seamstress can, even if she works for one cent an hour, and are, unquestionably, the best Machines in the market for family sewing, on account of their simplicity, durability, ease of management, and adaptation to all varieties of family sewing—executing either heavy or fine work with equal facility, and without special adjustment.

As evidence of the unquestioned superiority of their Machines, the GROVER & BAKER SEWING MACHINE COMPANY beg leave to respectfully refer to the the following

TESTIMONIALS.

"Having had one of Grover & Baker's Machines in my family for nearly a year and a-half, I take pleasure in commending it as every way reliable for the purpose for which it is designed—Family Sewing."—Mrs. Joshua Leavitt, wife of Rev. Dr. Leavitt, Editor of N. Y. Independent.

"I confess myself delighted with your Sewing Machine, which has been in my family for many months. It has always been ready for duty, requiring no adjustment, and is easily adapted to every variety of family sewing, by simply changing the spools of thread."—Mrs. Elizabeth Strickland, wife of Rev. Dr. Strickland, Editor of N. Y. Christian Advocate.

"After trying several different good machines, I preferred yours, on account of its simplicity, and the perfect ease with which it is managed, as well as the strength and durability of the seam. After long experience, I feel competent to speak in this manner, and to confidently recommend it for every variety of family sewing."—Mrs. E. B. Spooner, wife of the Editor of Brooklyn Star.

"I have used a GROVER & BAKER Sewing Machine for two years, and have found it adapted to all kinds of family sewing, from Cambric to Broadcloth. Garments have been worn out without the giving way of a stitch. The Machine is easily kept in order, and easily used."—Mrs. A. B. Whipple, wife of Rev. Geo. Whipple, New York.

"Your Sewing Machine has been in use in my family the past two years, and the ladies request me to give you their testimonials to its perfect adaptedness, as well as labor-saving qualities in the performance of family and household sewing."—Robert Boorman, New York.

"For several months we have used Grover & Baker's Sewing Machine, and have come to the conclusion that every lady who desires her sewing beautifully and quickly done, would be most fortunate in possessing one of these reliable and indefatigable 'iron needle-women,' whose combined qualities of beauty, strength and simplicity, are invaluable."—J. W. Morris, daughter of Gen. Geo. P. Morris, Editor of the Home Journal.

Extract of a letter from THOS. R. LEAVITT, Esq., an American gentleman, now resident in Sydney, New South Wales, dated January 12, 1858:

"I had a tent made in Melbourne, in 1853, in which there were over three thousand yards of sewing done with one of Grover & Baker's Machines, and a single seam of that has outstood all the double seams sewed by sailors with a needle and twine."

"If Homer could be called up from his murky hades, he would sing the advent of Grover & Baker as a more benignant miracle of art than was ever Vulcan's smithy. He would denounce midnight shirt-making as 'the direful spring of woes unnumbered.'"—Prof. North.

"I take pleasure in saying, that the Grover & Baker Sewing Machines have more than sustained my expectation. After trying and returning others, I have three of them in operation in my different places, and, after four years' trial, have no fault to find."—J. H. Hammond, Senator of South Carolina.

"My wife has had one of Grover & Baker's Family Sewing Machines for some time, and I am satisfied it is one of the best labor-saving machines that has been invented. I take much pleasure in recommending it to the public."—J. G. Harris, Governor of Tennessee.

"It is a beautiful thing, and puts everybody into an excitement of good humor. Were I a Catholic, I should insist upon Saints Grover and Baker having an eternal holiday in commemoration of their good deeds for humanity."—Cassius M. Clay.

"I think it by far the best patent in use. This Machine can be adapted from the finest cambric to the heaviest cassimere. It sews stronger, faster, and more beautifully than one can imagine. If mine could not be replaced, money could not buy it."—Mrs. J. G. Brown, Nashville, Tenn.

"It is speedy, very neat, and durable in its work; is easily understood and kept in repair. I earnestly recommend this Machine to all my acquaintances and others."—Mrs. M. A. Forrest, Memphis, Tenn.

"We find this Machine to work to our satisfaction, and with pleasure recommend it to the public, as we believe the Grover & Baker to be the best Sewing Machine in use."—Deary Brothers, Allisonia, Tenn.

"If used exclusively for family purposes, with ordinary care, I will wager they will last one 'three score years and ten,' and never get out of fix."—John Erskine, Nashville, Tenn.

"I have had your Machine for several weeks, and am perfectly satisfied that the work it does is the best and most beautiful that ever was made."—Maggie Aimison, Nashville, Tenn.

"I use my Machine upon coats, dressmaking, and fine linen stitching, and the work is admirable—far better than the best hand-sewing, or any other machine I have ever seen."—Lucy B. Thompson, Nashville, Tenn.

"I find the work the strongest and most beautiful I have ever seen, made either by hand or machine, and regard the Grover & Baker Machine as one of the greatest blessings to our sex."—Mrs. Taylor, Nashville, Tenn.

"I have one of Grover & Baker's Sewing Machines in use in my family, and find it invaluable. I can confidently recommend it to all persons in want of a machine."—G. T. Thompson, Nashville, Tenn.

"I take pleasure in certifying to the utility of the Grover & Baker Sewing Machines. I have used one on almost every description of work for months, and find it much stronger and better in every respect than work done by hand."—Mrs. D. W. Wheeler, Nashville, Tenn.

"I would be unwilling to dispose of my Grover & Baker Machine for a large amount, could I not replace it again at pleasure."—Mrs. H. G. Scovel, Nashville, Tenn.

"Our two machines, purchased from you, do the work of twenty young ladies. We with pleasure recommend the Grover & Baker Sewing Machine to be the best in use."—N. Stillman & Co., Memphis, Tenn.

"The Grover & Baker Sewing Machine works admirably. I think the stitch and work far superior to that of any Sewing Machine I ever saw. On fine work, I think the Machine would be hard to beat."—J. W. Davie, Memphis, Tenn.

"I find the Machine easily managed, very durable, and take pleasure in recommending it to all who wish convenience, economy, and pleasure."—Mrs. F. Titus, Memphis, Tenn.

"I am happy to give my testimony in favor of Grover & Baker's Sewing Machine, and of the perfect satisfaction it gives in every respect. It sews neatly, and is by no means complicated, and I prefer it to all others I have seen."—Mrs. Bryan, wife of Rev. A. M. Bryan, Memphis, Tenn.

"It affords me much pleasure to say, that the Machine works well; and I do not hesitate to recommend it as possessing all the advantages you claim for it. My wife is very much pleased with it, and we take pleasure in certifying to this effect."—R. C. Brinkley, Memphis, Tenn.

"It gives me pleasure to find the Grover & Baker Sewing Machine giving so much satisfaction. I have it in constant use, and find it all that could be desired. It is the most simple and durable machine in use, and I heartily recommend it."—F. M. White, Memphis, Tenn.

"Having seen, examined, and used many other kinds of Sewing Machines, I feel free to say, that the Grover & Baker Machines are far superior to all others in use."—M. Francios Seltz, Nashville, Tenn.
